Working at level 5 in English

Children will be able to do many of the following:

Speaking and listening

- → narrate, recount or express their ideas clearly in a way that takes account of the listener
- pick up on some nuances or implications in what they hear
- → judge the level of formality needed in a situation and adapt their speech accordingly
- → adopt different roles and strategies in a group to achieve the purpose or task
- → sustain a character in role and work with others also in role
- → explain some of the differences they notice in people's speech.

Reading

- → select relevant evidence from different points across the text
- → quote or refer to the text to support their ideas
- → read between the lines and understand meanings that are implied rather than stated
- → give a general overview of the purpose of the text and its effect on the reader.

Writing

- establish and maintain a clear purpose for their writing, using a style and form that matches the purpose
- → hold the reader's interest by the imaginative development of their ideas and choice of words
- organise and shape paragraphs to suit the purpose of the writing and guide the reader through the text
- express more complex ideas, using varied sentence structures to build up detail or vary pace and emphasis.

What you can do at home to help your child make progress

Speaking and listening

- → find opportunities for them to talk at length about increasingly complicated ideas and situations, for example, explain an experiment they have done in science or a topical subject such as cyber bullying
- → help them take more account of the listener's reaction when speaking, for example, when telling a story to a younger sibling making it exciting
- → encourage them to listen and express their opinions about local and national issues in the news.

Reading

- → give them regular opportunities to make their own choices in what they read at home, for example, visits to the library, magazines that cover out of school interests
- encourage them to develop their response to a text in more detail, for example, ask them to tell you how their feelings towards a character changed at different points in a story

→ talk with them about the writer's choice of language, for example, ask them to choose a section they think is good and explain why they think it works well.

Writing

- encourage their personal writing, for example, a journal or diary, social networking, a blog
- → talk through their ideas with them before they start to write, for example, prompt them to think about how they intend to tackle a subject
- → help them to reflect on their writing, particularly the effect they hoped to have on the reader, for example, is the reader sufficiently prepared for the ending?
- encourage them to read through their work, shaping their sentences for clarity and impact and checking their accuracy.
